

SPACE VAMPIRES & THE FUTURE OF 'I': THE FICTION OF PETER WATTS

10-11 NOVEMBER 2017

Jackman Humanities Building, Room 100 - 170 St. George Street, University of Toronto, St. George Campus.

Image courtesy of Dan Volbert

Canadian science fiction writer – and reformed academic – Peter Watts is one of the most significant writers to emerge in the twenty-first century. The combined complexity of his ideas and prose remain unparalleled in contemporary writing. Please join us for this FREE 2-day public symposium which represents the first ever sustained academic engagement with Watts' oeuvre. The symposium will be opened with a special event from 3pm on Friday 10th November, 'An Evening with Peter Watts', which will feature a roundtable discussion of Watts' oeuvre followed by an appearance by Peter Watts himself. Peter will be reading from his as-yet-unpublished forthcoming material, as well as engaging in a wide-ranging interview about his work and process. We sincerely look forward to seeing you there!

All are welcome, this event is free!

Image courtesy of Zhivko Petrov

For further information, including the full event schedule, please contact:
ben.eldridge@sydney.edu.au

Generously Sponsored By